ARSON DISCOUNTED

Hundreds Battle Forest Fire Near Oregon City

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 21—Dry, sun-baked forests were aflame today from the Canadian border to California and hundreds battled to control a raging fire on the outskirts of Portland.

Northwest forest authorities termed the fire hazards the most critical since 1922. Rain has been almost non-existent in the area recently and temperatures have ranged in the 90s.

Thousands of wooded acres already have been burned.

In Portland, residents of a dozen homes were evacuated last night while firefighters from three counties fought against a blaze which broke out in a 3,000-acre forest at the city's northwest limits.

A hundred Airforce men from the Portland Air Base joined the battle as heavy winds drove the fire southward toward a heavily-populated residential area.

AUTHORITIES traced the blaze to an untended camp fire. They discounted reports of arson.

A new fire erupted near Yacolt, Wash., about 25 miles northeast of Portland, and began spreading fast.

Twenty-four fires were reported burning in Jackson County, in southern Oregon. One was "crowning"—licking the tree-tops, where it can spread miles in an hour.

A 6,000-acre blaze north of Scottsboro, Ore., and northwest of Eugene, was still out of control. Another blaze, 12 miles from Roseburg, in southern Oregon, also was reported burning.

Flames have blackened 2,000 acres on the Skagit River in Mt. Baker National Forest in northwestern Washington. Another fire on Washington state land in the same area has burned over 3,000 acres, and still another in Chelan Forest, in northern Washington has swept over 1,300 acres.

A blaze on Hubbard Creek, 20 miles north of Roseburg, Ore., has covered about 5,000 acres.

All logging was halted in western Oregon Saturday night because of the fire danger. About 35,000 loggers will be idle—except for fighting fires—until a heavy rain, which may not come until late September or early October.

Pamphlet Lists 32 American Red Rally Sponsors

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—A pamphlet plugging the Communist-sponsored "world peace festival" of youth which ended in East Berlin Sunday provided today the names of 32 Americans listed as sponsors of the huge propaganda rally.

Disclosure of the pamphlet listing what was termed the "Initiating Committee, U.S.A." for the Berlin rally removed part of the smoke-screen that hid the extent of American participation in the two-weeks-long meeting marked by bitter "hate America" demonstrations.

On the purported "initiating committee" were 19 men and 13 women. They included students, among them college athletes, artists, entertainers, writers, labor union officials and business and office workers.

The list was published by the "Committee for World Youth Friendship and Cultural Exchange" with an address in New York City, in a pamphlet urging young Americans to go to East Berlin and contribute money for the rally.

Some of the alleged "initiators" declared, however, they knew nothing about the World Youth Friendship Committee and said their names were used without their knowledge or consent.

Still another group either refused to comment at all or could not be found at the time of the check.

In listing the names of the purported "initiating committee, U.S.A." for the rally the pamphlet took pains to point out that the organizations listed after each name did not necessarily join in the alleged sponsorship. At the bottom of the list, in parenthesis, the pamphlet bore the notation "organizations for identification only."

Good Fortune Expected Now

AKITA, Japan, Aug. 21—Kikuzo Tanaka, 82, today looked forward to a spell of good fortune.

His hopes were founded on the fact that an aged turtle laid two eggs in a pond in his backyard.

Tanaka said the turtle is 140 years old and has been kept by his family for generations.

The proud owner laid the eggs in the sand to hatch.

Hurricane Increases In Size

114 Dead Left In Storm's Wake

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21—A Caribbean hurricane which cut a swath of death and destruction across Jamaica and Yucatan grew in size and fury today as it roared toward the Mexican coast south of Tampico.

With at least 114 dead and thousands homeless in its wake, the storm got its "second wind" after swirling across Yucatan and picked up new speed over the Gulf of Mexico.

The storm itself was moving at 16 miles an hour in a westward direction but winds spinning around the "eye" or center of the hurricane reached a screaming 130 miles an hour.

The New Orleans, La., Weather Bureau estimated at midnight that the "eye" of the hurricane would hit Mexico again between Nautla and Tuxpan Tuesday night and that winds would extend as far north as Tampico, about 260 miles from Texas.

When the winds hit the Tampico area they are expected to lash Brownsville, Tex., with a force of about 70 miles an hour.

Squalls and heavy seas stirred by the big wind are expected to pound the lower Texas coast to (Continued on Page Two)

What, No Men?

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 21—Missouri's Gov. Forrest Smith has received about 35 indignant letters protesting the appearance of Fan-Dancer Sally Rand at the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia. They were all from women.

MEN NEVER HAD CHANCE

12 Persons Lose Lives In Airforce Jet Crash

FT. DIX, N. J., Aug. 21—The fiery crash of an Airforce jet trainer into a group of soldiers at Ft. Dix claimed its 12th life today and the death toll was expected to hit 13.

Dead were the pilot, his passenger and ten field artillery trainees, including two brothers. Twenty-one other soldiers were injured, one critically.

Sgt. 1-cl William H. Richardson, in charge of the men receiving communications training, yelled "hit the deck!" when he saw the plane plunging to earth and was credited with saving many lives.

The two-place jet—training version of the F-80 Shooting Star and attached to McGuire Airforce Base at Ft. Dix—plunged into the trainees shortly after take-off late yesterday.

The men—all privates—never had a chance as the jet exploded and sprayed them with blazing fuel.

THE SOLDIERS—members of Battery B, 26th Field Artillery, 9th Infantry Division—were loading on a 2 1/2-ton truck at the end of their class preparatory to returning to barracks when the ship crashed.

Air Force Personnel in the base control tower said they saw the jet was in trouble as soon as it took off. They tried in vain to contact it by radio.

The plane zoomed up to 1,000 feet, they said, and then plummeted into the woods, only 2,000 feet from the runway.

Believed to be traveling at around 200 miles an hour—it can do 600—the jet screamed and tore through the trees, clipping of boughs and branches and cutting a wide, flaming path.

The left wing-tip hit the truck on which some men were loaded. And it was believed the wing-tip tank either grazed the vehicle or blew up as it passed over.

The truck tarpaulin blazed up and the men's cotton uniforms caught fire on the cover collapsed on them before they knew what had occurred and had a chance to get out.

Others near the truck also were splattered with flaming fuel but were able to beat out the flames.

THE FIRST would-be rescuers were unable to get near the truck as the intense heat from the burning vehicle and woods drove them back.

When the ship exploded further on, flaming fuel was splattered over the soaring pines and scrub oak and the woods caught new fire.

Ten of the victims—including the two air force officers—died immediately after the plane crashed into the woods. The two others died of burns in the station hospital.

Fifty-four men had been undergoing training in wire-laying under 11 instructors shortly before the disaster struck them. Some already were starting to walk back to their quarters a mile and a half away.

The remainder either were loaded on the truck or were getting ready to climb aboard.

Authorities said it might be difficult to determine the cause of the crash because both the pilot, Capt. William H. Rauh of Seattle, Wash., and his passenger, Maj. Theodore Deakyn of Levittown, N. Y., were killed.

1,300 Convicts Enter 6th Day Without Food

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 21—More than 1,300 convicts at the Oregon Penitentiary went into their sixth day without food today with no break in sight in the stalemate between prisoners and Warden George Alexander.

Forty inmates, all trustees, gave up early yesterday and went to work after eating a hearty breakfast. The others refused to back down, however, although one trustee said "some of the boys are pretty hungry."

The 1,300 have missed 14 meals in a row. They have been locked in their cells since Thursday, when Alexander issued his "no work, no food," edict.

Two convicts released Monday at the end of their sentences, told news men that some prisoners are making a broth from hot water and salt and pepper which they previously had smuggled to their cells. They also said a syrup often is made from water and smuggled sugar.

Alexander denied the report, saying "there's not a word of truth to it."

The Oregon Prison Association, meanwhile, expressed belief that the convicts' strike has put the whole prison reform program "in jeopardy."

It asked the convicts to stop their strike at once and called on the state board of control to seek the true reason for unrest in the penitentiary and take these steps:

1—Complete the selection of a new warden from a list of 37 applicants.

2—Investigate disciplinary personnel and charges of brutality against certain guards.

3—Devise a uniform system of discipline.

Defense Housing Controls Bill Sent To Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The House today approved and sent to the White House a $1.6 billion defense housing bill which relaxes credit controls on low-cost housing.

The congressmen voted unanimously to accept a report in which House and Senate conferees set down payments of four percent for GI's on the purchase price of a house costing $7,000 or less.

The down payment will be six percent for houses in the $7,000-$10,000 bracket and eight percent for those costing from $10,000-$12,000.

Federal Housing Administration mortgages or conventionally financed housing would require a ten percent down payment under $7,000, 15 percent from $7,000 to $10,000, and 20 percent in the $10,000-$12,000 bracket.

The bill, approved by the Senate yesterday, allows the suspension of residential credit restrictions in critical defense areas if houses cost less than $12,000 or rent for less than $85 a month.

The $1,635,000,000 provided in the bill would be used to finance emergency housing in areas where new defense plant construction or reactivation of military bases has caused a housing shortage.

STATE DEPARTMENT IRKED

U.S. Says Deeds Must Back Red 'Peace' Words

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The United States made clear today that Russia's "peace drive" will receive a curt brush-off until Moscow backs its words with deeds.

As a result, the U.S. will:

1. Pigeonhole the Soviet note protesting the cancellation of the U.S.-Soviet Trade Agreement of 1937. Moscow declared that this action violates the Congressional peace resolution.

2. Insist on the scheduled signing of the Japanese Peace Treaty at San Francisco Sept. 8.

The state department is so annoyed at the Russian protest over the severance of trade that it may not even bother to answer the note.

Distrust of Russia's motives all along the line is so great that the reopening of talks on the settlement of the lend-lease account of World War II is not being taken seriously.

AT MOSCOW's request the talks will be resumed at the state department at 3:30 p. m. today. There has been nothing so far to indicate that Russia will make any concessions beyond those outstanding two months ago when the talks broke down.

At that time, the U.S. insisted that Russia return more than 600 merchant and naval vessels loaned during the war and an 800 million dollar payment on the 11 billion dollar account.

Russia in substance has refused to return the vessels, claiming that President Truman, under U.S. domestic law, had no authority to ask for them. It has offered a mere 240 million dollars in settlement of the account.

Observers believe that Moscow may be willing to meet the 800 million dollar figure but only in return for concessions that the U.S. is unwilling to make.

The 1937 trade agreements was renewable on a yearly basis until 1942, when it was agreed that it would be unnecessary since the U.S. was sending such heavy shipments to Russia. It is now felt that the 1937 accord was uneven.

The U.S. agreed to give Russia tariff concessions. In return, the Soviets consented to heavier imports of U.S. goods. Since all buying is through the Communist state authorities, Russian tariff concessions were superfluous.

Economy Drive Slashes Civil Defense Funds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—A Republican economy drive on a supplemental appropriations bill asked by President Truman resulted today in an 88 percent slash in Civil Defense funds.

The reduction, part of a general cut of 716 million dollars in the appropriations measure, came despite warnings that Russia is building bigger and more powerful atom bombs than was believed possible a short time ago.

The bill, as passed by the House and sent to the Senate, now totals $1.5 billion for operation of numerous federal agencies. Included in the President's original request was $335 million for civilian defense. The House allowed $65,255,000—a reduction of more than 469 million.

The Civil Defense cuts were made by the Appropriations Committee, and the House as a whole refused to restore them, even in the face of dramatic pleas by Reps. Price (D) Ill., and Jackson (D) Wash., members of the Congressional Atomic Committee.

Price and Jackson told the House that Russia is adding to its A-bomb stockpile daily. Price said the Soviets had more and bigger atom bombs than had been estimated originally.

Jackson said that "the Soviets are in the atomic weapons business on a big scale and with every day and week that passes, they are adding to their stockpile of these destroyers."

New Demand Aired In Broadcast

5th Meeting Held In Kaesong

KAESONG, Aug. 21—The Pyongyang radio aired a new demand for a 38th Parallel armistice line tonight after an Allied truce delegation spokesman raised the possibility of differences between Red China and North Korea.

A Pyongyang broadcast declared North Korea "cannot give up any territory north of the parallel." It described as "out of the question" the United Nations proposal that a cease-fire buffer zone be created generally along the battle front which lies mostly above the 38th.

The radio outburst from the North Korean capital included the accusation that "the Americans want to prolong the (armistice) talks in order to capture more land north of the parallel" and "insure the passage of a military budget" by Congress.

The broadcast came at an unusual hour when, ordinarily, the Communist radio gives out nothing but repetitions of the previous day's news.

The apparent divergence of interest between the Chinese and Soviet-backed North Koreans regarding the armistice negotiations was mentioned by Brig. Gen. William F. Nuckols, information chief for the UN delegation.

HE SPOKE to newsmen as the parley's subcommittee held a fifth meeting within earshot of artillery fire on battle fields just outside the neutral zone around the conference city of Kaesong.

For more than an hour of the session, which lasted two hours and four minutes, the two UN and two Red delegates on the joint committee pored over maps brought into the conference room by the Allied members.

There was no word as to whether any progress had been made toward ending the long stalemate over where to locate a cease-fire line across Korea. However, a sixth session was set for 11 o'clock Wednesday morning (8 p. m. Tuesday EST).

Vice Adm. Charles Turner Joy, top UN armistice negotiator and a member of his five-man delegation, South Korean Maj. Gen. Paik Sun Yup, flew back to Korea from a two-day stay in Tokyo where they conferred with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

Vice Adm. Joy meanwhile advised the top Red negotiator, Gen. Nam Il, that Red charges blaming Allied troops for Sunday's shooting incident inside the Kaesong neutral zone were not borne out by a "preliminary report."

Nuckols, who attended the formal armistice sessions before the subcommittee began its (Continued on Page Two)

ATOMIC EXPANSION ASKED

Delay Seen In Senate Action On $8.5 Billion Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The possibility loomed today that Senate action on the administration's requested 8.5 billion dollar foreign aid program will be delayed until after the Japanese Peace Conference next month.

Sen. Smith (R) N. J., said the bill may not even get out of committee before members have to leave for the peace parley which opens in San Francisco Sept. 4.

Smith said the joint committee handling the bill may hold up action to give appropriations measures and the tax bill the right of way. He said this would enable members to concentrate on foreign aid after the peace parley.

The foreign aid bill is caught in a log-jam of conflicting committee hearings.

THE FOREIGN aid committee will not even meet today. A recess was taken to enable members to attend the other hearings. Senators said that much depends on the progress made when sessions resume Wednesday.

In its only action Monday, the committee pigeon-holed the Administration's 8.5 billion dollar global aid bill and took up instead the House bill which includes a one billion dollar cut.

Chairman Connally (D) Texas denied this was tantamount to approving the House cut. Other senators predicted that the committee will probably go along with a one billion dollar slash but may make it in different form than the House voted.

On the domestic defense front, the Pentagon high command received a strong demand from Senate Military Appropriations Chairman O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., for expansion of atomic weapons and the planes to deliver them. O'Mahoney told the civilian and military heads of the three services in closed session that he thought "our principal attention" should be put on atomic and air weapons rather than the "normal" land and naval war implements.

THE MILITARY officials were understood to have given no specific reply. Senators reported after the closed session that the Pentagon will submit a new program to President Truman on Oct. 1 and that this will include their recommendations on the size of the Airforce.

The Oct. 1 program will include cost figures for the military in the next fiscal year but it is said it will be the key to long-range expansion of air power.

Officials Try To Keep Oil Talks Going

TEHRAN, Aug. 21—W. Averell Harriman and Britain's lord privy seal, Richard R. Stokes, tried desperately today to keep the oil nationalization talks with Iran from complete collapse.

Harriman, foreign policy adviser to President Truman, who managed to get the British and Iranians to resume the talks, took an increasing role to keep the talks alive.

He and Stokes met with Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and Stokes, in addition, called on Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

Britain's plan for settling the dispute growing out of Iran's nationalization of the properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, has been spurned by Iran.

However, the Iranian rejection has not been published yet. Publication probably would deal the death blow to the discussions.

Murder Case Hearing Set

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 21 — A preliminary hearing will be held Friday in Chillicothe for 54-year-old John Shaw, charged with slaying his step-daughter, Mrs. Ruth Cox, 31, the mother of three.

Slated in municipal court yesterday on a first degree murder charge, Shaw pleaded innocent to the Sunday evening shooting. Shaw is reported to have admitted firing the fatal shots to his wife's cousin and next-door neighbor, Patrolman Clarence Robey. The officer said Shaw told him:

"I did it Clarence." Robey also said that Shaw blamed the step-daughter for causing trouble between him and his wife.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

"You didn't go to sleep at nap-time. That's the reason you're such a baby," the vexed mother said to her son, three, after he had been crying and whining repeatedly at the slightest provocation.

"No wonder you don't eat your dinner, after having all that pop and ice cream," said the father as the girl, six, and her brother, four, dawdled over their meals.

Both parents whined these words. What they said was true enough, but the accusing remarks didn't make the three-year-old any better-natured or the sister and brother more eager for their food. Neither did the mother's remark render the three-year-old more ready to take a nap regularly thereafter, nor the other children more sure to avoid excessive sweets between meals later. What is more, the parent in each instance didn't suppose the scolding remark would do any good to the child concerned.

Then why was it made? The answer is, to give the scolding parent an emotional release. Present in each parent's experience was a mixture of forces. The mother was strongly aware of the value to the child of a regular nap.

SHE FELT A BIT guilty for not having cultivated good nap habits in this youngster. Frustrated and vexed at the time of the youngster's frequent whining, she was seeking unawares an escape from her responsibility; so she shifted the blame to the child and told him so. She announced to him and other adults present that she had a good plan for his guidance, anyway.

The other parent had a similar mixture of emotional conflicts and sought a similar method of escape. Each parent got the usual satisfaction from "I told you so."

At any time, on any day, any parent may be faced with many similar frustrations and vexations with a child, and be tempted to indulge in futile whining and scolding words. Consider the times when a youngster is injured by accident or injures something or somebody. "If you had listened to what I told you it wouldn't have happened," or, "just as I expected."

How hard it is for a parent to act intelligently at such times and to manage his behavior and his tongue. All of us parents have erred in such instances.

But, by exercising thought and effort, we might err less often.

In the case of the fretful child who missed his nap, the mother should not have said a word, as you can see, about the omitted nap. She should have done her utmost to win the youngster to better ways—to make the most of the problem at hand. Properly she might have entertained in silence the ideas that she had about the nap, and resolved to effect a better nap program thereafter.

The father, observing the two youngsters dawdling over their food, should have spoken not a word about their having sweets before the meals. He should have avoided urging these children to eat, but tried to make the mealtime as enjoyable for all the family as possible. (My bulletin "Eating Problems" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper.) He might well have said to himself "That problem of sweets his mother and I must work out better from now on."

Let us parents quit trying to push water back up over the dam.

Answering Parents' Questions
Q. Suppose you had a child nine or ten years old whose teacher finds him gifted in music. Suppose he refused to practice.

A. I would let him help choose a regular daily practice period of twenty minutes. Then I would see that either he always practiced faithfully during this period or sat in a chair without amusement where I could see him for forty minutes, not being allowed to practice that day.

'Bit Too Much,' Father Says

LONDON, Aug. 21—Quadruplets, two boys and two girls, were born yesterday to Muriel Brown, 27-year-old Briton, in Bromley Maternity hospital. Babies and mother are doing fine.

The father, a mechanic earning less than $30 weekly, commented: "It was a bit too much."

Korean, Iranian Settlements Seen

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—UN Secretary General Trygve Lie is optimistic that there will be a Korean truce and a peaceful settlement of the Iranian oil dispute.

Lie said on his arrival from a four-weeks vacation in his native Norway:

"I still think that in the end there will be an armistice in Korea."

And on the Iranian situation, he told newsmen yesterday:

"I still think there will be a settlement to the Persian oil question."

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

What's on your mind — romance? Here's a letter from a girl with a boy on hers:

"I am 15 and will soon be 16 and would like to know how to get a certain boy off my mind. I have liked him about four years and he doesn't give me a second glance. Could you tell me if I am really in love with him? What shall I do?"

It's pretty dreary to mope about a boy "who doesn't give you a second glance." Instead, why not DO something about it? Here are two suggestions.

1. Plan to rate "a second glance" by getting acquainted with him. Get a crowd of boys and girls you both know together for a picnic or a swimming party. Ask him to go along or suggest that one of the boys invite him.

If a picnic is out of the question, perhaps you can arrange a double date or something similar with him and another couple... arranging for the boy or girl who knows him best to ask him to come along.

Do you know where he plays tennis, swims, etc.? If you happened to be there too, it would be a good chance to get acquainted. It's always easier to get to know people better while you're playing the same game or enjoying the same sport.

2. If there's apparently no way to get acquainted with him — no way to include him in any of your Summer pastimes—try to find some way when you go back to school. Meanwhile keep so busy with sports, a hobby, books, etc., that there's no room for him in your mind!

For tips on personality perks-ups write to Elinor Williams at this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a reply.

"THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR FAIR DEALING"

NOW...a new Motor Oil that does more than Lubricate

CLEAN AND CONDITION YOUR ENGINE WHILE YOU DRIVE!

- ✓ Eliminate Motor Flushing
- ✓ Lower Your Oil Consumption
- ✓ Increase Gasoline Mileage
- ✓ Prevent Acid Action—Reduce Wear

The country's newest lubricating oil plant produces the world's most modern motor oil!

Producing Sohio HQD Motor Oil was no simple, overnight operation. It took six years of diligent research, and the construction of this $13,000,000 oil plant at Lima, Ohio. Five tremendous new integrated units, and a storage capacity of half-a-million barrels of oil had to be built. There are 144 miles of pipeline ranging from 3/4" to 30" in diameter. The dewatering unit alone has a refrigeration system with an ice-making capacity sufficient to supply a city the size of Dayton on a hot summer day! The concrete foundations, if made into a sidewalk three inches thick and three feet wide, would stretch for 34 miles. The entire plant required 10,000,000 pounds of steel. Daily electric power needed is enough to light 900 homes. All this—to bring to Ohio car owners a new and better motor oil!

Now you can clean and condition your engine while you drive! Sohio HQD is a new, heavy-duty, super-detergent motor oil that gives you three times the cleansing action...three times the dirt-dissolving and dirt-dispersing power of regular detergent motor oils. In addition to these great new functions that prolong engine life and increase engine efficiency, Sohio HQD Motor Oil exceeds...by far...the severest requirements for the finest protective motor oils of the past.

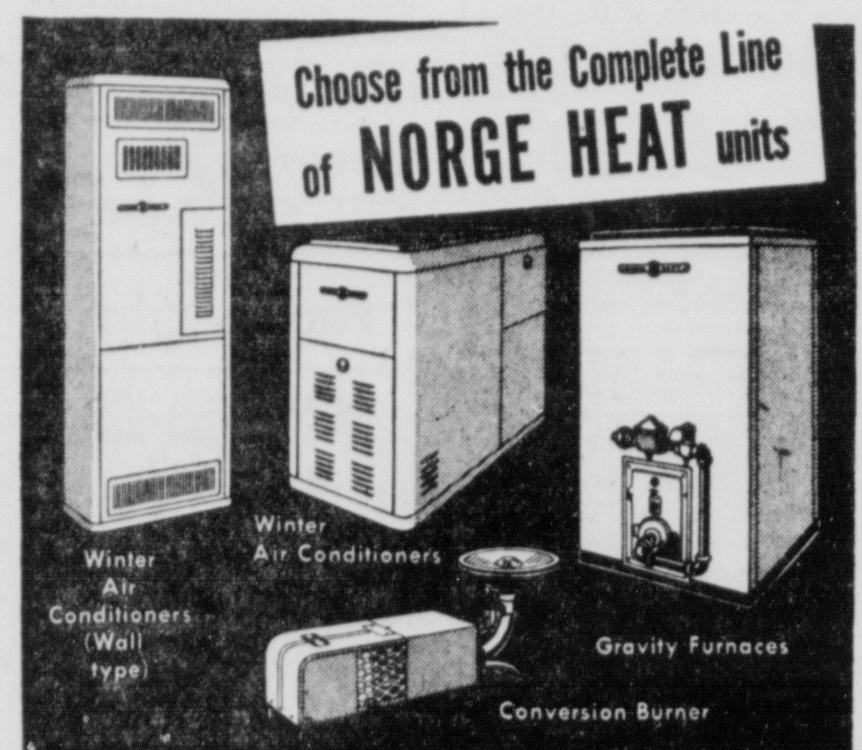

Sohio HQD Motor Oil surpasses manufacturers' recommendations for every make of car on the road today. Sohio HQD Motor Oil surpasses Army Ordnance specifications for a detergent motor oil suitable for use in U. S. military vehicles.

Use it with confidence! This new motor oil will contribute to the better operation of your engine under even the most extreme driving conditions.

...more than just a motor oil!

County-Wide Nutrition, Sewing Contest Held In Scioto Valley Grange

State Master Attends Meeting

State Grange master, Byron Frederick and Mrs. Frederick were in the group of approximately 140 persons present when Pomona Grange met Saturday with Scioto Valley Grange Hall in the hall near Ashville. Also present were John Dowler, state Grange treasurer and Mrs. Dowler.

Worthy master, Ben Grace, presided at the business session when resolutions and reports in memory of the late Malcolm Wilkins were read. Four candidates given the obligation were Mrs. Agnes Reese, Miss Larue Hutchinson, Mrs. Sylvia Harper and Maurice Harper.

Following dinner, served at noon by Scioto Valley Grange, T. M. Glick, retiring deputy, and Mrs. Glick were presented with a gift from all County Grange members in appreciation of their 10 years of service.

County-wide contests of clothing and baking were arranged by Mrs. Dowler with Miss Genevieve Alley, home demonstration agent, as judge.

Miss Jane Caldwell of Scioto Grange was the only winner in the juvenile dress contest. For adults, Mrs. Clarence Maxson of Salt Creek Valley Grange won first, Mrs. Evert Dick of Star Grange, second, Mrs. Martha Hulse of Washington Grange, third and Mrs. Oscar Atwood of Mt. Pleasant Grange, fourth.

In the cup-cake contest, Miss Gladys Hines of Nebraska Grange was awarded first place; Mrs. William Brown of Mt. Pleasant Grange, second; and Mrs. Maxson of Salt Creek Valley Grange, third. First place prize winners in both contests will participate in the State Fair next week.

A program arranged by Mrs. Galen Mowery, Pomona lecturer, assisted by Mrs. Josephine Dountz, Miss Ethyl May and Miss Margaret Anderson, was presented.

Those taking part in the program of music and readings were Miss Mary Walker, Miss Doris Steele, Mrs. Morris Harper, Linda Anderson, Patty Forshey and Sarah Jane Hedges.

A question and answer period concerning conditions in his native land was conducted by Fred Gronbach of Germany who is living in the John Dowler home as an exchange student.

A safety play, "Strong Soul" was given with the following cast: Suzanne Porter, Miriam Bach, Vonna Bach, Barbara Stoer, Martha Neff and Sue Polard.

Another feature of the program was a style show with dresses modeled by the women and girls of the Granges.

The day's program was closed with remarks by Byron Frederick and Mrs. Frederick and Mr. and Mrs. John Dowler.

FACTS ABOUT MONEY!

"NOT WORTH A CONTINENTAL"

With the start of the Revolution it became necessary to issue paper money to finance the war and since this Continental currency could not be redeemed in real money it depreciated rapidly and soon became worthless. The expression, "Not worth a Continental", became a synonym for absolute worthlessness and has survived to the present day.

Mystery Man Of Red China Noted

Hsieh Directed 1936 Kidnaping

SEOUL, Aug. 21 — Chinese Armistice Delegate Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang, who reportedly masterminded the Red cease-fire strategy, has been identified as the man who masterminded the kidnaping of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek 15 years ago.

And Hsieh Fang, the mystery man of the Red delegation, was also identified today as one of the top men of the Chinese Communist secret police—the "Political Protection Bureau."

A former aide de camp to the famed "young marshal" of China, Chang Hsueh-liang, the man who kidnaped Chiang in 1936 at Sian, today identified Hsieh Fang as another aide de camp and one of the important figures of the operation.

The real name of Hsieh Fang (which means "liberation" in Chinese) is Hsieh Pei-yen. He is a native of Manchuria, but did not attend school in Moscow as previously reported by Allied headquarters.

THE KIDNAPING of Chiang in 1936, led to the united front of Communists and Kuomintang against Japan. Hsieh, a trusted officer and aide of Chang Hsueh-liang was one of the two negotiators who arranged the release of Chiang when Moscow apparently put its stamp of disapproval on the kidnaping.

The young marshal, Chang Hsueh-liang, has been held in custody by the Nationalist government since the kidnaping and is under detention in Taipei, Formosa.

Later Hsieh rose rapidly in the Communist hierarchy and at one time was propaganda chief of the Fourth Field Army, but he also remained a man of mystery.

When he appeared in Kaesong, no one knew who he was.

An official briefing officer, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, told correspondents that during the Kaesong meetings, Nam Il seemed to be merely a spokesman for the Communist side rather than the man who set the policy.

And it was reported that when Nam spoke or answered a question put by vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, he always looked to Hsieh for a nod of approval, as if the Chinese mystery man and secret police agent were running the show.

Portsmouth Man Is Electrocuted

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 21 — Amon Howard, 24-year-old Portsmouth waste material dealer, was electrocuted last night at his home when he plugged a faulty light cord in a kitchen connection and went into his basement, which was covered by three feet of water, to begin drainage work.

Children To Test New Weapon

PENNSVILLE, N. J., Aug. 21 — A new secret "friendship weapon" aimed at youngsters behind the Iron Curtain will be tested Tuesday at Riverview Beach Park in Pennsylvania.

It's bubble gum.

The park will be the site for the so-called "world's championship bubble gum contest," with more than 100 youthful contestants exercising their jaws and lungs.

Two winners will be crowned king and queen "bub," and each will have the honor of mailing direct to the U.S. ambassador in Moscow a carton of 1,000 sticks of bubble gum for distribution to Russian children.

Hat Check Girl Brings New Guest To Club

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21 — Margaret Barstow, a young lady who looks like a movie queen but who presides over the hats at Herman Hoyer's swank nightclub, Ciro's, on Hollywood's Sunset strip, brought a new "customer" into the place over the weekend.

However, it must be admitted that Hoyer did not make as much as a cover charge off his guest. Nor did the "customer" purchase as much as a highball. In fact, if he had Hoyer would probably have had some explaining to do for selling liquor to minors.

The new customer weighed six pounds, 13 ounces, and came about a month before Mrs. Barstow expected her.

Mrs. Barstow, former AAU champion who went to Ciro's as hat-check girl a year ago, complained of feeling ill shortly after midnight Saturday.

She was assisted to an upstairs room and Hoyer stepped to the club's p. a. system to ask the time-honored question:

"Is there a doctor in the house?"

There was. Dr. Bert Tardieu responded to the call and delivered the baby girl a half hour later.

Mrs. Barstow's husband, Bruce, is an engineering student at the California Institute of Technology.

11 County Fairs Get Underway

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21 — Eleven county fairs get underway in Ohio this week.

They are: Adams County fair at West Union; Allen County fair at Lima; Athens County fair at Athens; Darke County fair at Greenville; Defiance County fair at Hicksville; Lake County fair at Painesville; Logan County fair at Bellefontaine; Lorain County fair at Wellington; Madison County fair at London; Seneca County fair at Tiffin, and Ross County fair at Chillicothe.

Police Seek Suspects In Bombing Case

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21 — Suburban Breckville police are seeking prospects and a motive to the mysterious dynamite bombing of a nearly-completed home early last night.

The explosion caused an estimated $7,000 damage to the $50,000 home being built by Garfield Heights Solicitor Joseph L. Zelazny, victim of two previous home bombings.

Zelazny, an attorney with offices in Cleveland, said the home was being built for an "undisclosed principal" and that "as far as I know, all union help has been employed on the project."

The blast ripped a hole in the living room floor, smashed windows, tore plaster and lath from the walls and buckled a brick wall. Police believed six sticks of dynamite were used.

A neighbor, Mrs. John C. Fiest, said she saw two men loitering near the home shortly before the blast, which shook the neighborhood and was heard more than a mile away.

In 1947, Zelazny's home in Garfield Heights was damaged by an explosion which remains unsolved. At the time he blamed commercialized gambling but later said he could offer no explanations.

On Dec. 24 in the same year, his home again was bombed. Zelazny offered a reward for information on the attacks but neither bombing has been solved.

Needle Removed From Heart

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 — For the second time in two years Chicago doctors have removed a needle from the heart of 13-year-old Larry Hudetz.

However, Larry and his parents claim they do not know how the second needle—three inches long—entered his body. It was removed last week in an hour and a half operation.

Larry's father, George, said the needle removed in 1949 pierced the boy's chest while he was rolling in bed. It was removed in a comparatively simple operation.

The family doctor thought Larry had developed a rheumatic heart when he began complaining of illness six months ago. He became worse and three weeks ago was taken to the hospital where x-rays revealed another needle in his heart.

He now is reported well on the road to recovery.

Fisherman Dies In Fall

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21 — A coroner's autopsy will be made to determine the cause of death of Frank Zika, 77, of Cleveland, who fell off a pier into Lake Erie while fishing last night at Euclid Beach Park.

Zika, who was retired, was pulled from the water by two anglers who got a rowboat from a rental dock on shore. Witnesses said Zika floated on the surface and made no struggle after his fall.

Police rescue units applied respirators but with no effect.

Boy, 12, Shows Fancy Sleep Walking Talents

REVERE, Mass., Aug. 21 — Twelve-year-old Leonard Morley of Quincy, Ill., Monday showed his relatives in Revere some fancy sleep walking.

The youngster had fallen asleep on a couch and his father shook him awake or thought he had—to send the boy to his bedroom. Leonard got off the couch and stumbled sleepily toward a flight of outside stairs to reach his room.

He disappeared. A five-hour search by his parents and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Slater and police failed to locate him.

Meanwhile, Leonard had wandered down the road some 500 yards and into the apartment of Anthony Paskiewicz, 28.

When Paskiewicz arose to go to work, he was startled to see a strange boy snoozing on his couch in the parlor of the second floor apartment. He awakened the youngster who greeted him with a tearful:

"Where am I?"

Then Leonard dashed down the stairs and over to the Slater home where he fell into the arms of the father.

Interstate Ban Asked On Betting Information

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — Congress was urged Monday to impose a flat ban on the interstate transmission of all gambling information with stiff criminal penalties for violators.

The proposal was reiterated by the Federal Communications Commission which once again rejected a plan to license distributors of such information, with exemptions for general circulation newspapers and broadcasters.

This plan was advanced by the Senate Crime Committee as the outgrowth of its nationwide investigation of organized crime.

The FCC, however, called it "cumbersome," open to "widespread evasion," and unsuitable and ineffectual.

The agency's views were made known in a letter to Chairman Johnson (D) Colo., of the Senate Commerce Committee, which is considering legislation introduced by the crime group.

The FCC said the legislation would not curb nationwide gambling on sports events and cited the recent basketball scandal as evidence that "the problem is already a major one."

Calling for a federal ban which would extend to betting odds and prices paid, the FCC said:

"It seems clear to us that the proper way to deal with this billion-dollar gambling syndicate is to cut it off entirely from the information which is vital to its operations, by a flat prohibition, carrying criminal sanctions, on the use of interstate communications facilities."

Ag Chiefs Lauding Corn Drier

Method Assures
Better Harvest

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—Early harvesting and corn drying through forced air ventilation are the latest suggestions for Midwest farmers from the Agriculture Department.

The forced air method, engineers say, enables the farmer to harvest and condition his corn without worrying too much about mold, no matter what the weather.

The use of mechanical pickers early in the fall has resulted in a better harvesting job. More of the husks are removed and less of the corn is left in the field. When the harvest is early the moisture content of the crop is high—about 30 percent—corn is mature before this moisture content is reached.

An early harvest, the department says, means less loss of corn because of insect damage and might even help the farmer plow or fall seed the same land.

WHEN A FARMER harvests his seed corn early he reduces the danger of frost damage, which might mean the seed won't germinate and grow.

Now the early harvest is becoming more practical because good, workable portable drying equipment and storage designs are becoming available on the market.

Also, the advent of electricity on most Midwest farms makes the method convenient and comparatively cheap.

What kind of ventilating system should a farmer use? Officials say this is a question which each operator must answer for himself.

Tests show an unheated ventilation system will dry corn in from two to six weeks, while heated forced air will probably dry the same corn in 3 to 4 days, regardless of the weather.

But the equipment is expensive. A motor driven fan and a heating unit, usually an oil burner, is required.

Engineers point out that this type costs money. But then, the cost of fuel for drying the crop may often run as high as five or six cents a bushel.

However, power costs would be less than for the unheated equipment because the fan would not have to run very long.

Shooting Case Brings Arrest

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 21—Wilfred Scott, 25, was held today by the Mahoning County sheriff's office on an open charge in connection with the fatal shooting of his mother-in-law.

Scott was captured by police in a Brier Hill home yesterday. His estranged wife, Eula Jean, who he abducted following the shooting, was found in the house, unharmed but suffering from shock.

The hunt began shortly after three blasts from a shotgun killed Mrs. Geneva Fort, 39, and wounded her husband, Roger, 40. He is in fair condition at South Side hospital.

WHAT'S A POOR DOG to do when he can't walk or run as all dogs like to do? When Laddie, a 3-year-old Collie, was stricken with an illness that caused paralysis, his owner, Ross Kagwin of Big Rapids, Mich., solved the problem. As soon as Laddie could use his front legs again, Kagwin built him a special little wheeled cart in which he can rest his useless hind legs while his front pair pull him around. Eventually Laddie is expected to recover fully. (International)

Going Into Debt Is Just A Joke

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21—Going into debt in Cincinnati is just a joke.

Municipal Court Bailiff Ralph R. Curi told the Masonic Club that debtors arrested for contempt of court because of failure to pay their bills just laugh.

"Curi—commonly known as the city sheriff—said there isn't a jail in Cincinnati to take such offenders. He could not explain why neither the city workhouse nor the county jail will take persons arrested on debtors contempt warrants.

Senate Group Told Of Spy Ring In Japan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—A wartime Japanese police official told the senate McCarran Security Subcommittee yesterday that the Sorge spy ring sought to keep Japan from attacking Russia.

Mitsusada Yoshikawa, former chief investigator for the Japanese attorney general's office, said that while the ring sought military secrets, it also was directed by Moscow to turn Japanese attacks south not toward Siberia.

The spy group was headed by Richard Sorge, a German Communist who concealed his true affiliation by an ostentatious display of Nazi sympathy for Japanese militarism.

Sorge and his Japanese accomplices were arrested in 1941, shortly before the attack on Pearl Harbor, and were eventually executed.

Yoshikawa also declared that in the early 1930's three Americans were active in Sorge's operations in China. He said one was Agnes Smedley, now dead, another was a newspaperman known only as "Jacob" and the third was an unnamed employee of the American consulate in Shanghai.

Forgetful Elmore called Chicago police from Lisle, Ill., and was grateful to learn Billy was being held at the missing persons bureau.

Elmore dashed back to the city and two hours later he counted off his youngsters and headed home again.

Texas Youngster Is Rescued From 8,000 Ft. Ledge

CARLSBAD, N. M., Aug. 21—A fall into a cactus patch and 36 hours without food or water on an 8,000 foot ledge was a sore reminder today for John Eoff, a 10-year-old Ballinger, Tex., youth.

Eoff was rescued Monday but not until he had crawled three miles, passed a search party and was found later.

John Erwin, 18, a companion of Eoff's, hitchhiked into Carlsbad for aid after Eoff had fallen into the cactus patch. Erwin told the sheriff that Eoff couldn't walk because his legs were badly pierced by cactus spines.

The sheriff organized a search party but when they got to the spot where Eoff was left he was gone. The lad had managed to crawl past the party and was on his way down the slope.

When his rescuers reached him, Eoff wanted to go back up the slope again.

He said his wallet containing $4 was left up there.

TESTS WORKED OUT Progress Is Reported In Fight Against Fungus

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—Ohio State university has announced that a team of its medical specialists is making considerable progress in conquering a sometimes fatal fungus disease for which there is no known treatment.

According to OSU, the Midwest is the focal point for the ailment, known as histoplasmosis, which attacks both man and animals.

The researchers already have reported development of the first accurate tests for detection of the mold disease which may cause nodules or lesions in the intestines, stomach, lungs, liver, spleen or other areas.

The doctors said they have worked out a skin test for animals and a blood test for humans.

They also reported that atabrine, the anti-malarial drug so familiar to armed service veterans, has shown "some promise" as a treatment in tests with infected mice.

RESULTS of the work are to be presented by a research team member, Dr. C. R. Cole, chairman of the OSU veterinary pathology department, next Wednesday to the American Veterinary Medical Association in Milwaukee.

The paper will deal with the occurrence, symptoms and diagnosis of the disease in dogs, the test animal for most of the research work.

Through their work, Drs. Cole, Deane M. Chamberlain, John A. Prior and Samuel Saslaw, have turned up 15 cases of histoplasmosis among Ohio humans, eight of which were fatal, and 31 cases among dogs brought to the university veterinary clinic.

The team now is trying to find the "reservoir" of fungus from which the disease is contracted, and how it is spread among humans.

Pickaway Workers Earn Less Than Average For Ohio

BUC Lists Weekly Wage For 1950

Wood County Salaries Highest

The average Pickaway County worker tools home thinner envelopes during 1950 than the average Ohio worker.

A report of wages of workers protected under the Ohio unemployment compensation law for 1950 shows the average salary here last year was $47.89 per week.

However, the state average per week during 1950 was $63.58, meaning that employees in Pickaway County took home about $16 less than the average worker in the state.

Largest average wages paid in any single county during the year were recorded in Wood County, where the average workman drew $71.04 per week.

The local worker's wages compare favorably, however, with the $42.72 per week average recorded in Fayette County, although considerably less than the $52.08 of Fairfield County or the $58.94 of Franklin County.

ONLY WORKERS protected under the unemployment compensation law were counted in the survey, however. During 1950 a total of 2,762 were working under the act in Pickaway County.

Greatest single wage factor here during 1950 was manufacturing, which paid its employees $3,200.072 in wages.

Next in order of wages paid was wholesale and retail trade with $1,782,180; transportation, communication and utilities with a payroll of $864,900; contract construction with $617,276; finance, insurance and real estate with $166,597; and service with $160,594.

In all, workers under the unemployment law here drew a total of $6,878,692 during 1950.

By classification, manufacturing again leads in this county in the number of workers protected under the employment law.

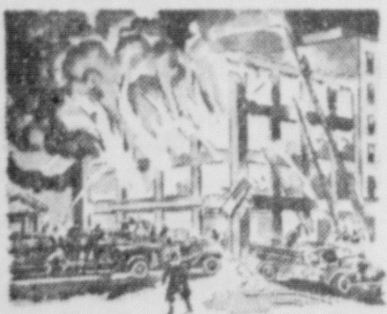

According to the report, a total of 1,154 workers in manufacturing are protected; 913 in wholesale and retail trade; 280 in transportation, communication and utilities; 198 in contract construction; 115 in service; and 73 in finance, insurance and real estate.

IN THE state as a whole, largest average weekly wages were paid to contract construction workers, who averaged $70.63 per week.

Manufacturing workers on the average in the state drew weekly checks of $69.56; mining workers made $63.71; transportation, communication and utilities drew $65.69; wholesale and retail traders earned $53.54; finance, insurance and real estate employees received $59.96; and service industries workers drew $44.12.

On the state scale, a total of 2,177,178 workers were protected during 1950 under the unemployment compensation act and drew a combined total of $7,197,838,769 in wages during the year.

Greenfield Man Dies Of Wounds In Gun Fracas

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—Richard L. Howland, 25, of Greenfield, died early Monday in a Columbus hospital of self-inflicted gunshot wounds after he shot three other persons in a Washington, C. H. restaurant.

Washington C. H. Police Chief Vaiden Long blamed the shooting on a love triangle involving Howland and his brother Robert, 27, and Robert's wife, Betty, 22, a waitress in the restaurant where the blaze of gunfire occurred.

The wounded were Mrs. Howland, Mrs. Cecil Happeney, wife of the restaurant owner, and Carl Ratliff, a restaurant patron.

Police Chief Long said the two brothers walked into the restaurant about 9:45 p. m. Sunday and "Robert had a few words with his wife," who had sued him for a divorce.

Long said: "Richard suddenly went wild, went berserk, and started firing... He fired eight shots from a nine-shot .22 caliber revolver." Mrs. Howland was shot in the back, Mrs. Happeney in the hip and hip. Then Richard turned the gun on his own head.

Long said Robert Howland apparently became panicky, grabbed the gun, ran from the restaurant and took a taxi to his home in Greenfield, where he was apprehended about 11 p. m.

All the victims were taken first to Fayette County Memorial hospital in Washington C. H., but Mrs. Howland and Richard were transferred to Mt. Carmel hospital in Columbus where Richard died about 12:50 a. m. today.

RFC PROBLEM ARGUED

GOP Senate Group Turns Loose Vitriolic Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Republican members of the Senate's "influence" subcommittee have unleashed a vitriolic report charging President Truman and Democratic Chairman Boyle with bringing "Pendergast politics to the national level."

The half-inch thick "minority report on the Reconstruction Finance Corp. probe" was released along with a much milder Democratic majority report. At the same time, Subcommittee Chairman Fulbright (D) Ark., denounced the Republican statement as "unduly abusive" and not worthy of publication at the taxpayers' expense.

The issuance of the reports brought to an explosive end the harmony that existed between members of both parties during the famous "mink coat hearings."

The GOP report, prepared by Sens. Capehart, Ind., and Brickner, Ohio, was highlighted by its attack on Mr. Truman and Boyle and its demand for a "full congressional investigation" of Boyle.

It said both men are "graduates of one of the most corrupt political machines in the history of any state," and added:

"THEY HAVE transferred Pendergast politics to the national level. Morality in government has declined to the lowest ebb in the nation's history. The American people are deeply ashamed and rightly disturbed."

The Republicans declared that the RFC, multi-billion-dollar government loan agency, is the agency "most likely to be seduced" by influence and political pressure and urged its abandonment.

The majority, on the other hand, said that it felt RFC should not be abolished and noted pointedly that question was not before the subcommittee in the first place.

GOP members took special note of recent charges that Boyle received an $8,000 fee from the American Lithofold Company of St. Louis, after the company received a half-million-dollar RFC loan. Boyle has denied any connection with the loan.

They called Boyle and the Democratic National Committee "the fountainhead of favoritism and influence," and commented caustically:

"If telephone calls to other departments and agencies by Mr. Boyle and his assistants had the same magical effect as they did on the RFC, the proportions of this influence racket defy description." The Republicans backed a proposal by Sen. Byrd (D) Va., to bar party officials from attempting to influence decisions of government agencies.

CAPEHART and Brickner also hurled sharp criticism at Donald Dawson, presidential aide, named in the hearings as a man with considerable voice in RFC affairs.

The senators commented: "His ethical standards are indefensible. If he is sincere in the beliefs of right and wrong he is incapable of honest duty as a public servant and should be summarily dismissed."

Another target was Merl Young, Democratic party handyman and husband of the White House stenographer who received the famous natural royal pasted mink coat from Lawyer Joseph Rosenbaum.

Army Sense Of Humor Proved

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Aug. 21—The Army has proved that it is not entirely without a sense of humor.

As thousands of weary soldiers rested after a week of grueling mock fighting in operation southern pines, the nation's largest war games since World War II, the Army high brass put on a show.

"Aggressor" Commander Brig. Gen. Henry J. D. Meyers, whose battle-hardened veteran troops have been facing the U. S. "defenders," turned out to decorate two of his commanders.

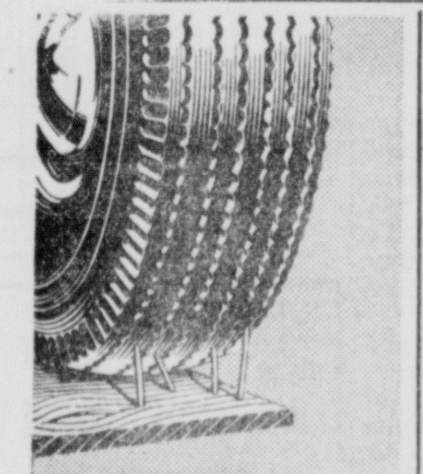

Meyers, grinning broadly, pinned "the highest award ever presented to mortal man" on two colonels. The award was a huge comic medalion. Then thousands of soldiers spectators chuckled as Meyers and his officers snapped to attention. From a loudspeaker came the din of the aggressor "national anthem"—a Spike Jones recording of the Tennessee Waltz.

Hogs will eat snakes, according to the Bureau of Animal Industry.
